Suppliers' Night A Shining Success

This year's event, held on February 28th, 2007 was a great event. Over 123 tables showcased their products and services to over 170 attendees. The BCFT Executive would like to thank the organizing committee of Jack Phillips, Jerry Hedding, Daphne Tsai, and Peter Taylor for their continued effort of making this event a highlight of our year. The organizing committee would like to extend a big "thank you" to all of the student volunteers from both UBC and BCIT. This event could not run as smoothly without their help.

Get Involved with the BCFT Executive

The BCFT is accepting all nominations for all positions on the executive. The list of positions is on the front page of the newsletter. The election will take place at the AGM on June 8th, 2007 at the Country Meadows Golf Club in Richmond. The Executive is pleased to announce the new position of Awards Chair in 07/08. The annual responsibilities would include:

- Create and submit notices for newsletters reminding membership of awards and nomination deadlines (detailed descriptions should appear in the October Newsletter).
- Prior to the nomination deadlines (at least one month in advance), discuss awards and possible nominees at an executive meeting.
- Assist in the preparation of nominations as required. Nominations can be submitted by individual members, or by the section (section nominations may be stronger than individual nominations).
- Prepare Notice for the September Newsletter announcing BC's award winners.

For Employers and Job Searchers

BCFT sponsors 'no-charge' job postings and resume postings on our website. Please ensure the posting is in pdf or word document form. Optionally, we can provide a form for the job posting.

Check out the current positions available at this link:

Request for Comments on the Development of the Agriculture Innovation Hub

BCFT Chair Margaret Daskis is asking for members input for the implementation for the development of a Agriculture Innovation Hub (details reprinted from the February Newsletter found below). Suggestions for pilot plant equipment, technical capacity, location options, etc. can be sent to freshideas@telus.net.

BACKGROUND:

Anne McCannel represented BCFT at a meeting on January 11 hosted by Investment Agriculture to investigate the development of an "Agriculture Innovation Hub" within British Columbia. A large number of industry organizations and government groups were represented at the meeting. The industry organizations included the BC Food Processors Association (BCFPA), Western Canadian Functional Food and Natural Health Product Network (WCFN), University of British Columbia Faculty of Land & Food Systems (UBC), the Small Scale Food Processor Association (SSFPA), BC BioProducts Association (BCBPA), and the BC Agricultural Council (BCAC).

The government groups were comprised of Western Economic Diversification, BC Ministry of Agriculture and Lands, and Investment Agriculture.

A BC Food Technology Centre Working Group consisting of the industry organizations had already met previously to address the need for an industry-centred technology and commercialization centre in BC. This group submitted a proposal for funding a project with the goal of defining the services that should be offered and the form or structure of the centre.

What happened at the January 11 meeting?

Discussion included a description of past activities and future "visions" for a centre (must be affordable, accessible, allow production of commercial products, use existing infrastructure as much as possible, entrepreneurial, etc). It was agreed that the Agriculture Innovation Hub participants would work together to move forward on the initiative. The first step towards this vision is to perform a feasibility study and write a business plan. The industry organizations, in concert with the government groups, are in the process of facilitating this project.

Next steps

Because the creation of a centre would be such an important development for BCFT members, Margaret Daskis has agreed to continue in the role of representing BCFT at future meetings.
